RECENT FAREWELL

Yuldasheva Dilfuza Muydinjanovna
TSTU, Department of Foreign Languages
assistant, supervisor (scientific advisor)
Kuzibayev Bekhruz Bahodir ugli a student of the AB-6 group of the Faculty of Electrical Engineering and Computer Engineering of the Tashkent State University of Communications
(Tashkent state transport university)

Annotation: This article about the latest days of fantastic poet Sheikhzade. All well-known writers and poets visited him when he was ill and was really impressed by the conversation, which they had. Sheikhzade never tried to show his illness and pain, he met every persons with smile and maintained the conversation in a good mood. Some passages of the article describe the friendly relationship between the poets and Sheikhzade.

Key words: poet, guest, publication, poems, translation, pain, sever, memory.

The new year 1967 came in rapidly. For someone this year was the October coup and the 50th anniversary of the establishment of the Soviet state, for someone it was the 30th anniversary of the great massacre of 1937-1938. However, the reforms in society, in particular the republication of Gulistan magazine in January of this year, and the publication of works such as "Timur’s trzuklar" " My Dagestan " - were as a sign of the good end of the year. Sheikhzade had met this year with great hopes and dreams. In early January Suyimakhan invited Sheikhzade with wife to his home. Knowing well the science of how to receive a dear guest, the lady set a beautiful table. The poet laid out from the treats he liked. The guests came, greeted each other, and drank a cup of tea. Suyimahan was going out into the kitchen and pouring soup, when Sakinahon came in the kitchen.

Suyimahan, don’t get too carried away. We will not sit long. Your teacher’s condition is not good. "Tell out, many bother let it not be", - says your teacher.

Sakinahonim said that and tears from her eyes poured came involuntarily. Although Suyimakhon herself also became gloomy, but she collected herself and gave comfort to Sakinahon. Then the two women came out laughing to Sheikhzadeh, as if it had not happened. Sheikhzade tasted of the food brought by the host in, and then read one the translation made by Samad Vurgun from his new poems. Suyimahan recently came out of publication in her translation "Alisher Navoi" along with the story" Kalila and Dimna" presented her brochure to the master. In exchange for these books Sheikhzade will present as gift the collection of poems "alley", which will soon come out of print. There will be days when every minute is kept in memory for a lifetime. If we could have any information about each day of Sheikhzade: what he was able to write during this time, how in his heart the Dream and the arches hit the shelves and, of course, the"Beruni when we could know how his further fate was...

February 9, 1967. Chairman of the Writers ‘Union Kamil Yashin, together with the editor of the newspaper" culture of Uzbekistan" (now Literature and art of Uzbekistan") Laziz Kayumov, will go to see the sick poet. Unfortunately, the last days of the poet, Laziz Kayumov were informed in the "Telegraph style", wrote only such words: "if the pain is severe, it is necessary, but it has dealt with. Brother Yashin: "let’s call a doctor from Moscow?" when he asked:" no, the doctor is good, the skill is high, but the patient’s heart is weak," he said. Again, from the words of this memory, it became clear that Shaikhzade did not drink the drugs that the doctors wrote down, "my drink went as a pharmacy." Looking at Yashin aka Sheikhzade, who heard the reproaches of my sakinahon about this: "It is necessary to listen to wives. Sakinahan not only your faithful wife, but also a doctor. She knows well that medicines are useful," he said. Then the patient in response to The Poet Yashin will give such an answer:

Mulla Nu’man’s sons, the poets say, as long as a man lived in ancient times.

Whether because he was sick like me or for some other reason, in any case, when he was lying on the bed, a fly came and disturbed him. Then, as long as the man killed one of the flies and chased one, the king of the flies waved over this man and complained to God. God is a justice; he takes the side of the flies and says to the man: "I have created you and the fly. You have no right to wave flies. Then do not be able to do such an indecent thing." Then the man opened his two hands, looking at the sky, and said, "O God, you have created both man and creature living in seven climates. You give them your judgment. If I could not subdue one pale fly, then what would you do by creating me?"- as long as it says. Likewise, if I could not subdue my noble wife, What Would the God do by creating me. Even though Sheikhzade was ill he was able to respond with such humor to his friends. On February 9, 1441, His Majesty Alisher Navoi, the great Uzbek poet and thinker, was born in Herat. Here, more than sixty years have passed, every year on the birthday of great poet, Alisher Navoi of the Academy of Sciences the Institute of language and Literature named after is celebrated in the form of traditional navoiykhanate conferences. Well-known Navoi scientist Hamid Orasli from Azerbaijan was invited to participate in this year’s conference. Unfortunately, in the work of the YIII conference (1964), Sheikhzadeh, who participated in the report of the Azerbaijani scientist Sadiq Kitabdor about the "Majma ul-Havas", this time couldn’t come to the conference due to his illness. Having known about the illness of his compatriot, the Baku scientist, after the conference, together with the director of the Institute, Aziz Kayumov and his brother Laziz Kayumov, will see the poet and go to the hospital in Shurtepa (Lunacharsk) to get care about his health. So, February 12 (13), 1967. This is how St. Kayumov remembers this day in his memoirs about Sheikhzade: "A miracle room of the hospital. The teacher Sheikhzade was lying on a high pillow over the bed. He was pale. He lost weight. The reverend wife of the poet is at the service next to him. They met us with an open face. We had a little conversation. The Sheikhzadeh, no matter how severe his condition was, spoke to us in a good mood, and even laughed. We said goodbye to that person, expressing a desire to recover faster...”

This memory of St. Kayumov gives us such an impression that the scientists who came to visit Sheikhzade saw his sick state and, without sitting for long, said goodbye. But Laziz Qayumov, together with his brother and Hamid teacher, remembered the day when he visited the poet and said: "their conversation was sweet, good - natured", saying that they had a sweet conversation on this day, despite the fact that they had not been in the presence of the poet for a long time.

February 13(14) 1967 the student of Azad Sharafiddinov, together with the literary critic Umarali Normatov, will go to the hospital to see the sick poet. They see the disease gnawing at poet’s health for quite some time, as they did not meet with Sheikhzade in the coming months.Thanks to the fact that the life-loving poet retained his spiritual vivacity, especially when he sees Ozod Sharafiddinov, he was happy. "He was overflowing and in a hurry to pour out the heart," Umarali Normatov recalls that memorable day. He told about experienced curious situations, adventures, unrequited dream. Especially after the earthquake, during a trip to Baku, they told with such detailed, interesting regrets about how they captured the manuscript of some unique scientific work on the poetics of classical poetry, which Kazbek forgot in the taxi.

Literature:

1.Abdullayev A. Literary and critical views of Maksud Sheikhzade. AKD. Tashkent, 1981.

2. Alimdkanova.S. Creative conception and image (on the material of Sheikhzade’s poetic creativity). - 170 -AND. Tashkent, 1974.